INTRODUCTION

This publication is the tenth in an annual series and provides statistics on outlets, employees, payroll and sales for over 160 types of businesses in the retail and service trade sectors. Included for the first time this year are statistics for building supplies stores. These businesses, which had been considered as wholesale establishments, are now part of the hardware and home furnishings category. Statistics for all businesses are arranged by number of outlets, number of employees (full-time and part-time), total payroll and total receipts from sales and services.

The survey results are presented in 54 tables, which have been grouped in six sections by population. Statistics are available for Alberta, the 12 cities within Alberta, 18 towns of population over 5000, 41 towns of population 2000 - 5000, selected towns of population less than 2000 and municipalities within Census Divisions. Each section includes a composite table and individual tables for each population grouping.

The publication also contains a survey overview which gives a description of the survey and methodology, a section which provides summary analyses of the 54 tables in the results section and appendices which detail the types of businesses surveyed, provide definitions of the terms used throughout the publication and include data on municipal populations.

HIGHLIGHTS

Total retail and service trade sales for Alberta in 1981 were $17.9 billion, an increase of 12.1 percent from 1980. The retail trade sector generated $15.0 billion, a growth of 11.2 percent, with the service sector representing $2.9 billion an increase of 16.9 percent.

The largest business group category was the automotive group, which includes new car dealers, service stations, etc., with 3,627 outlets and $5.3

billion in sales. In comparison the food store category generated sales of $2.1 billion. The smallest category in the retail sector was apparel and accessories with sales of $.7 billion. The largest service sector category was accommodation and food with 3,615 outlets reporting $2.4 billion in sales receipts.

As in previous years, Calgary and Edmonton accounted for 50 percent of Alberta's population and 60 percent of Alberta's total trade. Calgary's total trade was $5.3 billion an annual increase of 16.0 percent, whereas Edmonton's total trade was $5.4 billion, 13.4 percent higher than 1980.

Overall, $13.5 billion or 76 percent, of Alberta's total retail and service trade was generated in cities. The remaining 24 percent was distributed evenly amongst towns of population over 5,000 ($1.4 billion or 7.8%), towns of 2,000 - 5,000 population ($1.5 billion or 8.6%) and towns under 2,000 ($1.4 billion or 7.7%).

Receipts per capita - a measure of retail and service trade activity weighted by population - for overall Alberta were $7,980. Calgary and Edmonton combined had receipts per capita, for total retail and service, of $9,485. On a regional basis, comparing census divisions, Census Division 9 registered the highest receipts per capita, $16,293 for total retail and service, which reflects the high tourist trade in the three National Parks located within this division.

SURVEY OVERVIEW

The Alberta Bureau of Statistics annually conducts the Retail and Service Trade Statistics survey. The survey questionnaires are mailed in March to all known retail and service trade establishments in Alberta.

Each business is classified according to the Standard Industrial Classification (SIC) codes implemented by Statistics Canada in 1971. Respondents are asked to provide information on number of employees (full-time and part-time) total payroll, and total receipts from sales and services. Businesses excluded from the survey are: professional service trades, establishments which provide a service to other businesses, retailing as a minor activity of wholesalers or manufacturers and door-to-door selling.

For the 1981 survey, sixty-seven percent of the total trade figure for Alberta was based on actual data received from survey respondents. The retail trade component was based on seventy percent actual data and the service trade component was comprised of fifty-three percent actual data. Response ranged from a high of eighty-nine percent actual data in the general merchandise category to a low of fifty-two percent in the accommodation and food services category.

Businesses which did not respond to the survey were individually estimated. Each estimate is based on the business's SIC, the location of the business within the province, business trends derived from actual data from comparable businesses which have responded to the 1981 survey and, if available, the historic data from previous surveys for the business being estimated. Actual and estimated data are aggregated to provide the total trade levels for Alberta and the subprovincial areas. Revisions to estimates can occur if actual information obtained from subsequent surveys differs substantially from the computer generated estimate.

Retail trade statistics published in this report differ from those produced by Statistics Canada. Statistics Canada data are based on a sample of the retail trade establishments in Alberta whereas the Bureau surveys all known retail establishments. The estimation of data for non-responding firms is derived using different population parameters because of the differences in survey procedure. Discrepancies also arise due to differences in the criteria used to assign businesses to specific SIC's, such as classifying a business as either retail or wholesale. Attempts are currently being made to identify and account for these discrepancies Statistics presented in this publication conform to the confidentiality guidelines of The Statistics Bureau Act of Alberta, Chapter S-22 of the Revised Statutes of Alberta, 1980, which prevents disclosure of information pertaining to an individual establishment. It is necessary to suppress some statistics which in themselves are not confidential in order to prevent the residual disclosure of other statistics. An asterisk in place of a statistic indicates that the information cannot be released in order to meet the confidentiality guidelines.

Data for number of employees, payroll and receipts are suppressed if statistics would release information for one or two outlets. Statistics are suppressed for three or more outlet totals where one or two outlets account for the majority of the receipts in the grouping. Information on the number of outlets belonging to any type of business is available throughout the publication as disclosure of this type of information is not governed under the Statistics Bureau Act.

The results for the 1981 Retail and Service Trade Statistics survey are presented in fifty-four tables which have been divided into 6 sections - one for Alberta and five based on community size, as outlined in the introduction. The sections include an individual table for each city/town included in the community size grouping and a composite table for the section.

ANALYSIS

The percentage change from the previous year for all categories for all six population groupings is presented in Table I. Total trade in Alberta increased from $15.5 billion in 1980 to $17.9 billion in 1981, an annual growth rate of 12.1 percent (see note for Table I). The retail trade component accounted for $15.0 billion in 1981, an increase of 11.2 percent from 1980. Over the past year, the service trade component grew more rapidly than the retail sector. It increased by 16.9 percent and had total receipts of $2.9 billion in 1981. The largest single category increase, 20.3 percent, was recorded in the service sector, in the accommodation and food services category.

Note: Changes have been made to ensure that 1980 and 1981 are comparable for the annual percentage change. For example, statistics for building supplies stores have been omitted for the percentage change calculation as they are only available in 1981.

The percentage change in population is also presented in this table to give an indication of the movement between population groupings and the effect on the annual percentage change. The group comprised of towns over 5,000 population exhibited the largest year-to-year change in sales receipts, 19.3 percent, and also the largest increase in population, 15.2 percent. Receipts per capita increased by 6.3% from 1980 for towns of population over 5,000. This increase takes into account the increase in retail activity as well as the increase in population from 1980. The large population increase in towns of population over 5,000 resulted from communities shifting from the 2,000 to 5,000 group to the over 5,000 group, which is also reflected in the relatively small population change for the 2,000 to 5,000 group. A similar shift occurred between the under 2,000 and the 2,000 to 5,000 groups. The result of communities shifting from the 2,000 to 5,000 group to the over 5,000 group, has been fewer outlets and lower sales receipts for the 2,000 to 5,000 group. In contrast, the over 5,000 group which has absorbed the shift, has an above-average sales change for most categories.

Comparisons of the percentage distribution of receipts by business groups within each population grouping and the distribution across all population groupings are presented in Table II. The distribution of retail, service and total trade receipts in Alberta shows little change from 1980. The retail sector accounted for 84 percent of the total trade in Alberta in 1980 and 1981. The automotive group was again the largest component in the retail sector and accounted for 29.9 percent of Alberta's total trade. The smallest category in the retail sector was apparel and accessories which accounted for 3.9 percent of the total trade in Alberta. The service trade sector accounted for 16 percent of Alberta's total trade. The largest component in the service trade sector was accommodation and food services accounting for 11.6 percent of total trade, while the smallest category, amusement and recreation, accounted for only 0.5 percent.

The retail trade component was dominant in all population groupings. Retail trade varied between 80.7 percent of the total for towns of population 2000 - 5000, and 87.1 percent of total trade for towns of population over 5000. The largest and smallest categories in all population groupings were the automotive and the apparel and accessories groups, respectively.

The food category accounted for approximately the same percentage of total trade in all population groupings with the exception of towns of population over 5000. For this grouping receipts for the sale of food products are higher than receipts for the general merchandise category. For towns in this grouping, the sale of food products in the local general store sometimes accounts for over 50 percent of the total receipts and as a result, they are classified in the food category. Consequently, the food category is relatively high and the general merchandise category is relatively low.

The service trade component varied between 12.9 percent of the total trade in towns of population over 5000 and 19.3 percent of the total for towns of population 2000 - 5000. The accommodation and food services category was the largest component in the service trade sector for all population groupings. The proportion of total trade for each municipal size grouping ranged from 9.5 percent in cities excluding Calgary and Edmonton, to 16.8 percent in towns of population 2000 - 5000. The accommodation and food services category is particularly high for this grouping because Banff and Jasper are included.

A comparison of how receipts, within each category, are distributed across the five population groups in Table II shows that the cities and Calgary and Edmonton account for the majority of the total sales receipts, 16.1 and 59.8 percent, respectively. Within the retail sector, Calgary's and Edmonton's dominance ranged from having a concentration of 64 percent of sales of the general merchandise category, which includes department stores, to 54.4 percent of food sales, which tend to be distributed more throughout all communities.

The cities and Calgary and Edmonton also accounted for the largest proportion of services when compared to the other population groupings. The service trade sector tends to be more developed in the larger centres resulting in an influx of trade from the surrounding area. The distribution of service trade receipts ranged from 6.3 percent in towns of population over 5,000 to 62.7 percent of the total service trade in Calgary and Edmonton. Towns of population 2,000 - 5,000 also recorded a high percentage of service trade within the grouping, 19.3 percent of total trade, and across the population groupings, 10.5 percent of total service trade. The group is somewhat atypical because of the tourism industry associated with Banff and Jasper.

Table III presents data relating the average outlet size by business group for all population groupings. For the 1981 survey, 20,878 retail and service trade outlets generating $17.9 billion in sales were recorded in Alberta. The average outlet, based on the Alberta totals, generated $855,000 in sales. For the retail trade component, 14,194 outlets were recorded and the average outlet size was $1,057,000. For the service trade component, 6,684 outlets were recorded and the average outlet size was $427,000.

The average outlet size based on total trade figures for the six population groupings ranged from $347,000 in towns of population under 2000 to $1,184,000 in Calgary and Edmonton. Calgary and Edmonton also recorded the greatest number of outlets and the largest average outlet size for both the retail and service trade component. Food was the only category where Edmonton and Calgary were not dominant. With the relatively large number of small speciality and convenience stores in Edmonton and Calgary, the overall average outlet size is larger in two other categories, other cities and towns over 5,000. For most population groupings, general merchandise, automotive and food groups had the largest average outlet size. Within the two cities group, the general merchandise category, which includes department stores, had the largest average outlet size. The apparel and accessories category recorded the smallest average outlet size for all population groupings. For the service trade component outlets, the personal services category recorded the smallest average outlet size for all population groupings. The accommodation and food services category had the largest average outlet size, with one exception, Calgary and Edmonton, where miscellaneous services recorded the largest average outlet size.

As a measure of retail and service trade activity weighted by population, receipts per capita by business group and size of community are presented in Table IV. Based on 1981 total trade for Alberta, receipts per capita were $7,980 with a retail component of $6,703 and a service trade component of $1,277 per capita. Cities, excluding Calgary and Edmonton, had the highest receipts per capita $10,789 for total trade and the highest receipts per capita for retail trade $9,368. Receipts per capita were higher than the overall Alberta figure in all population size groups. The rural population is included in the overall Alberta figure which accounts for the lower receipts per capita. The less populated areas attract business from the surrounding regions thereby increasing the sales per capita for the community. This is evident in the towns of population 2000 - 5000 which recorded the highest receipts per capita for service trade, $2,055. The tourism industry in Banff and Jasper is responsible for the high service trade receipts per capita for this grouping especially the accommodation and food services category which had receipts per capita at $1,783.

Receipts per capita on a regional basis, which includes the rural population, are given in Table V which presents the distribution of retail, service and total receipts per capita by Census Division. Across all Census Divisions receipts per capita for total trade ranged from $5,237 in Census Division 5 to $16,293 in Census Division 9. In the retail sector, receipts per capita ranged from $4,595 in Census Division 5 to $7,760 in Census Division 9. Receipts per capita in the service trade sector ranged from $623 in Census Division 3 to $8,534 in Census Division 9.

In general, Census Divisions with major cities located in them tend to have higher receipts per capita because they draw trade from the surrounding regions. This is particularly evident in the service trade sector where the service industries tend to be more developed in the larger centres. Census Divisions 1, 2, 6, 8 and 11 all have major cities located in them and recorded high receipts per capita. Receipts per capita in Census Division 11 which includes Edmonton, tend to be higher than Census Division 6 which includes Calgary, because Edmonton serves as a trading centre for Northern Alberta.

In addition to these high receipts per capita, the major cities, Calgary, Edmonton, Lethbridge, Medicine Hat and Red Deer, have more larger businesses. The number of outlets, distributed by value of sales receipts, for ten categories, for twelve Alberta cities is presented in Table VI.

The automotive category has the largest number of outlets in the over $5 million range, with a total of 155 outlets for the 12 cities. General merchandise and food, the two other dominant categories, have 102 and 101 outlets, respectively. The apparel and accessories category has no outlets with over $5 million sales. Similarly the services sector is dominated by smaller-sized outlets with few outlets exceeding $5 million in sales.

Although the larger cities have more outlets in the high sales value ranges, in some categories the proportion of large outlets of over $5 million is greater in the small cities. For example, in Edmonton and Calgary about 8 percent of the automotive outlets have sales in excess of $5 million, while in Grande Prairie and Lloydminster the over $5 million represents about 12 percent.

As would be expected, the general merchandise category, which includes major department stores, has the highest proportion of large stores, with the over $5 million representing more than 37 percent. Conversely, personal services, which is comprised of barber shops, cleaners, health studios, etc. has a disproportionate number of outlets, over 85 percent, in the less than $250,000 sales range.

This summary section has presented some samples of the types of comparisons/analyses that are possible with the detailed information provided in the 54 tables included in the following sections. As a final note, the appendices give a detailed listing of the types of stores included, as well as definitions and a list of communities covered, with their population.

Appendix B

Definitions

The following definitions apply uniformly throughout this publication.

Principal Statistics - Consists of the number of outlets, full-time and part-time employees, payroll and receipts.

Total Trade - The combined total of retail plus service trade.

Receipts - Includes all (gross) receipts from sales and/or services. Receipts are reported either on a fiscal or calendar year basis.

Payroll - Includes salaries and wages, commissions, bonuses, payments for leaves or holidays and payments in kind. Excluded are proprietor's withdrawals or salaries, and the salaries and wages of employees involved in contract or cartage work. Figures are reported on either a fiscal or calendar year basis.

Employees - Includes full-time (F-time) and part-time (P-time) employees on staff during the last complete pay period of September 1981. Working owners are excluded unless the business is incorporated. Note: Employees and total payroll are not based on the same reference period; therefore, the calculation "average salary per employee" will produce spurious relationships.

Retail Establishments - A business engaged primarily in the selling of merchandise directly to the final consumer.

Service Outlet - A business primarily engaged in providing a service to consumers for a fee.

Business Group - A broad merchandise category under which all related business establishments are grouped (e.g., - Food or Automotive).

Type of Business - The finest breakdown of a business group into its activity classification (e.g., Confectionery Stores or Department Stores).

Reference Period - Statistics are reported by respondents on either a fiscal or calendar year basis.
